

claira and the toad.

Once there was a Puny girl who was named claira. She never went outside, and I mean never! so this is a story she likes to tell. so it was midnight and claira was asleep like a lot of people. then claira was woken up by a strange CROAK! She looked out her window and saw a massive toad! ahhhh claira screamed. claira was worried that the toad would come in her tree. But the good news was that the toad was too oversized to get in. But she did not want the toad to stare at her all night, so instead of going out to take the toad claira covered the window and finally she could sleep. the End.
